Following TA Instruments recent acquisition of Thermometric and continuing TA Instruments’ focus on new technology innovation we are proud to announce details of the first UK TA Instruments TAM Users Meeting.

The users meeting will be focussed on current TAM users, however, anyone interested in the Calorimetry technique will be welcome.

The meeting will include a series of presentations from academics and applications specialists and will also include a discussion session on the use of the TAM. The meeting will focus on novel techniques for analysis of materials by Calorimetry and presents an opportunity for current users to develop new techniques and for new users to discuss potential applications with current users and Applications Specialists from TA Instruments.
